There are two things the world never prepares us for when it comes to death. 1) How to move forward after losing a loved one and 2) How to handle their estate and trust administrations when they are gone. That's why I truly love my job. I get to guide clients and give them peace of mind during difficult times.

In my free time, you can usually find me renovating my house while playing music way too loud, and also chasing the dog around the yard.
