Navigating legal matters related to your family can be challenging and emotionally tolling. Whether my clients are faced with a family law conflict, in need of a guardian for someone they care about, trying to determine how to handle a loved one's estate after they have passed, or looking to protect their family's future with a comprehensive estate plan, I approach each legal matter with empathy and understanding while fiercely advocating and working diligently to find the best possible outcome for each unique circumstance.

When not working, I can often be found at a practice or game for one of my children. In moments of free time I enjoy spending time with my husband and two boys, reading, baking, attempting to garden, and traveling.
