The foundation of law is advocacy – that every person is given a voice and an opportunity to be heard. As a former teacher, I developed a passion for guiding others through challenges which naturally evolved into a desire to help individuals navigate complex legal issues. In my transition from the classroom to the legal field, I have retained the same dedication to advocate for those in need, offering clients thoughtful counsel, clear communication, and unwavering support in pursuit of just outcomes.

Outside the office, I enjoy reading fiction, exploring Michigan's diverse outdoor landscapes, and spending quality time with my family. I'm also avid dog lover and can often be found walking my three dogs through Grand Rapids' local parks and trails.
