I have always loved reading and writing. Being able to practice both skills is actually a big reason why I chose to become a lawyer in the first place. It's wonderful when I can apply my research and writing skills to solve clients' problems or answer their questions and help them learn more about the law.

In my free time, I enjoy reading novels, painting, and visiting museums. I also love supporting the Michigan Wolverines as well as the Notre Dame Fighting Irish, unless they are playing Michigan.
